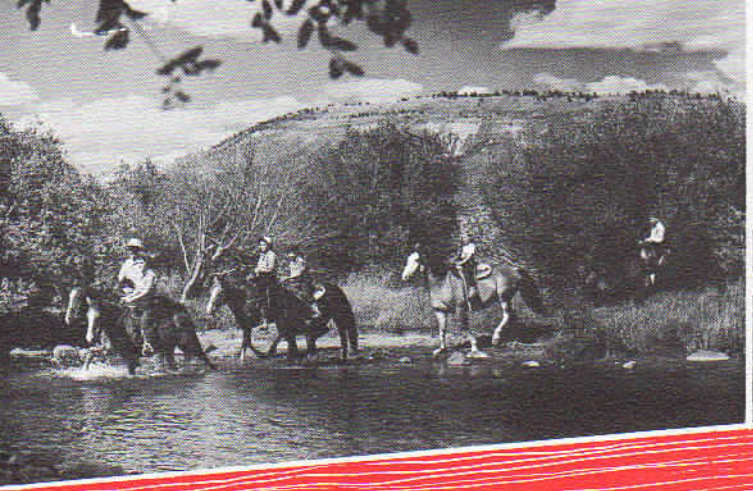
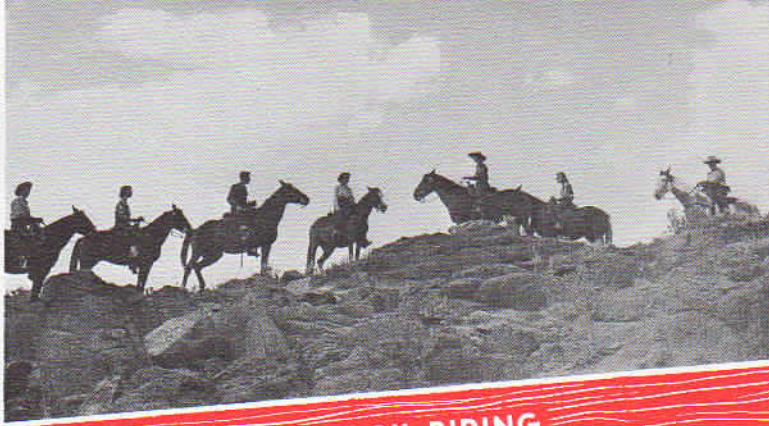
U.T. BAR RANCH

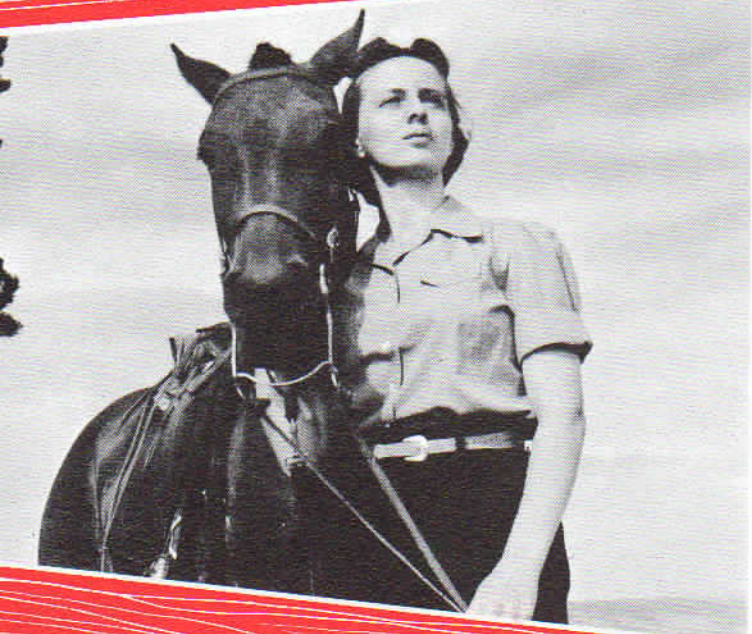
GLENDEVEY, COLORADO

A Working Cattle and Horse Ranch





HORSEBACK RIDING



RIDING is of course one of the favorite sports on the ranch. We maintain fifty head of horses, breaking and selecting the best of these to be used by our guests. In this way, you are assured a dependable, trustworthy mount.

The setting of the ranch offers a wide variety of riding; from level grassy meadows, over rolling foothills and through pine timber up into the high country. We often take an all day ride for those who like the long trips. The groups may be split so that those who do not care to go far can have short rides morning and afternoon. On Sunday we let the horses rest.

A BEAUTIFUL TROUT STREAM

FISHING . . . a mile and a half of the Big Laramie River runs through the middle of the ranch and you can start to fill your creel right at the cabin door. At any time during the season you will find excellent dry fly fishing. We will be glad to furnish instructions to the inexperienced fishermen.

BREAKFAST OUT

Fish and steak fries at the large outdoor grille, breakfasts cooked over an open fire in the mountains, over-night or two-night pack trips are all delightful experiences you will long remember.

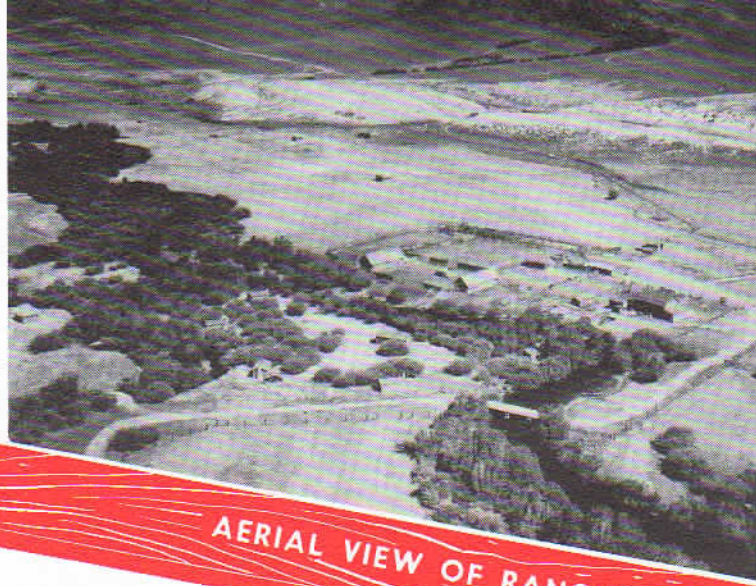
LOCATED in one of the least publicized areas of the state, we can show you the genuine West as it has been for many years. We furnish a saddle horse and have cowboys especially qualified to ride with you and teach you to ride, if need be. They will guide you around the ranch or on mountain trails, and will see that you have a good time in our West.

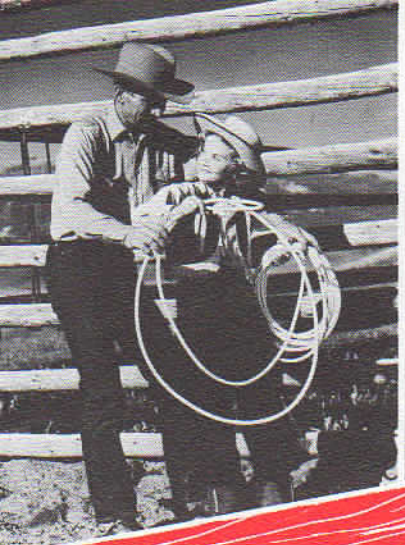


AERIAL VIEW OF RANCH

EVENINGS . . .
Some gather around the big fireplace in the front room for songs and stories, others play cards or promote a dance. Neighbors from nearby ranches often drop in to take a hand in the square dances. Evening picnics and bonfires are also a popular diversion.

CABINS: We are proud of our cabin accommodations which are outstanding in comfort and convenience. All are equipped with private bath and good beds and are an invitation to relax and enjoy life to the utmost.

INTERIOR OF CABIN



A WORKING RANCH . . .

The U T Bar is primarily a cattle and horse ranch, not a highly built up resort or dude ranch. You will find the genuine hospitality, friendly informality and natural courtesy at the ranch a refreshing change from the tension of city life. A personal interest is given each of you and to your ideas for an enjoyable vacation.

BRIEFLY SPEAKING

THE U T BAR is located in the Laramie River Valley, high in the mountains of Northern Colorado and 45 miles southwest of Laramie, Wyoming. The ranch has been under the present ownership and management, operating as a cattle ranch, since 1929, and entertaining guests since 1937. The altitude is 7965 feet and the mountain air is invigorating, yet the days are usually sunny and warm and the nights are pleasantly cool.

ACCOMMODATIONS . . . The original old log ranch house is comprised of six bedrooms, four bathrooms, a recreation and living room, dining room and kitchen. It furnishes accommodations for the family and a limited number of guests.

There are two one-room cabins for two or more guests each. The built-in bunks (three-quarter beds) and dressing tables are of knotty pine and the inviting fireplaces are of native stone. Three large two-room cabins and one three-room cabin accommodate four to six guests each. All cabin accommodations have private baths.

MEALS . . . are an event at the ranch—due in part to the appetites encouraged by activity and fresh air and also in part to the superior quality of the food served. We have our own dairy herd which supplies an abundance of milk, cream and butter. We bake our own bread, hot rolls and pastry and we butcher our own ranch-fattened beef. Fresh trout caught from the streams are frequently on the menu.

PACK TRIPS . . . The ranch is close to large primitive areas where trails are maintained by the U. S. Forest Service. Into some of this area we can take camp equipment by truck and the guests ride in on horseback. In other sections the camp equipment goes in by pack horse. In either case, evenings around the camp fire, and nights sleeping out in the high country are experiences you will never forget. Our equipment, tents, sleeping bags, air mattresses, etc. contribute to your comfort, but you will still know you are roughing it.

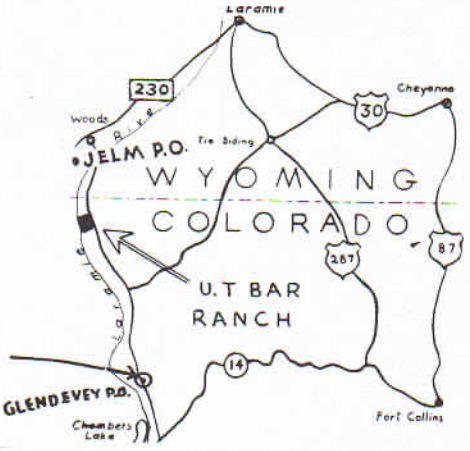
AUTO TRIPS . . . There are many points of interest within driving distance of the ranch, and these trips offer a diversion that many of the guests enjoy. Mountain scenery, rock formations, lakes, nearby rodeos and many other trips are taken by car if desired.

EVERYONE is usually back at the ranch in the evening in time to freshen up for the cocktail hour at five. There is no liquor sold at the ranch or served by ranch personnel. However, guests are at liberty to arrange the cocktail hour to suit individual convenience. Excessive drinking is never tolerated.

OUR SEASON: Opens June 15 and closes September 30. June and September are beautiful months in our country, but we do not operate to capacity at that time. People who prefer the smaller groups, choose these months for their vacations. The best road to the ranch and the shortest road time wise, from all directions, is to come through Laramie, Wyoming. From there take Highway 230 to Woods Landing. Cross the Laramie River at Woods Landing, and follow the main road going up the east side of the river for 16 miles.

TRANSPORTATION: By train or plane to Laramie, Wyoming, or by car to the ranch. We will meet you in Laramie, upon request, at no additional charge.

Sky Glen airport, which is shown on the aeronautical charts, is adjacent to the ranch and is located just two miles due south of the ranch buildings. Many of our guests keep their own planes here during their stay at the ranch, or transportation by air can be arranged from Denver directly to this airport. We will be glad to write you further particulars on this arrangement by request.



IN THIS FOLDER we have attempted to give you a fairly complete description without over-rating the ranch. Still, if you are not familiar with a good cattle and dude outfit, there is no word written, nor picture printed, that can give you a full realization of the truly wonderful vacation in store for you at U T Bar. We know of no other type of vacation that has the universal appeal for youngsters and adults alike. Bring all the family to the ranch where each will choose his own form of recreation.
